No time should be lost, because lung trouble may easily develop into pneumonia or consumption. Hamlins Wizard Oil, applied to the chest, relieves the pain and inflammation, loosens up the cough and soon cures the disease.

"My little girl," writes Rich. W. Thornton of Quray, Colo., "suffered more or less with a cold on the lungs since her birth, and finally the trouble became serious. Burma's Monster Cigars One of the curiosities of Burma is cigar of monstrous and alarming appearance, which every one smokes from an early age. "The indigenous article is a monster eight-juches long," writes V. C. Scott O'Connor in his book, "The Silken East." "It consists of chopped wood, tobacco, molasses and various herbs wrapped in the silver white skin of a bamboo. So wide in diameter is it that it completely fills up the mouth of any young damsel who tries to smoke it. For presentation purposes this long cheroot is often wrapped at one end in a coat of purple or gold paper. It accumulates a formidable mass of fire at the lighted end and requires some skill in the smoking. But the Burman infant acquires this skill before he can walk and while he is still at the breast. No one thinks of smoking such a cigar through. Two or three long puffs, the lips of the smoker thrust out to meet the circle of the cigar, and it is put down or passed on to some good fellow sitting by." The Man Who Loves Words.

"Other folks, of course, have their poor pleasures," writes Richard Le Gallenne in Harper's Magazine, "but for man who loves words no joy the world can give equals for him the happiness of having achieved a fine pas sage or a perfect line. When Thack-eray struck his fist on the table, as the story goes, when he had finished the scene of Colonel Newcome's death and exclaimed, 'By God, this is genius!' there was no empire he would have ac cepted in exchange for that moment. We often hear that your true artist is never satisfied with his work, his ideal escapes him, the words seem poor and lifeless, etc., compared with the dream. Whoever started that story knew very little about the literary temperament or he would have known that the words are the dream. The dream does not exist even as a dream or only very imperfectly till it is set down in words. Yes, the words are the dream.

The Curious Limpets.

The limpets are a curious kind of shellfish. They resemble the abalones in their habits. The interior is made of the most brilliant colors, bronze and iridescent hues predominating. They are found on the west coast of Mexico and are so large that the people use them for wash basins.

They are ferocious animals and prey with great voracity on clams. process seems slow, but the limpet always gets there. He gets his cover over the unsuspecting clam and puts his big foot on his shell, generally on a weak spots. Then he whips out a long, wiry tongue and proceeds to bore a hole in his captive. When this is done the shell files open, and the limpet is free to feast on the poor clam's carcass. He eats but a part and leaves the rest for the fishes of the sea.

The name of pudding wives was given to women who were eccasionally employed in some English monasteries for making pastry and delicacies that call for the deft touch of a feminine hand. They were engaged by or with the consent of the regular cook of the monastery and had a house or chamher in which to work near the kitchen called the pudding house. When animals were slaughtered, especially when pigs were killed, about St. Martin's quired to make black puddings; hence the name pudding wives. They were called in, too, for the making of pastry on special occasions.

Better Than Aladdin's Lamp. Aladdin's famous lamp was doubt-less a very handy little piece of bric-abrac to have about the house, but there is question whether it would be very highly esteemed in these days of advertising wonders. Aladdin may properly be regarded as a back number. Whenever he wanted anything he had to earn it by the sweat of his brow as a metal polisher. Nowadays people who want things put ads. in the news papers—it's much easier than rubbing an old lamp—and they are served just as effectively as was Aladdin by his genii.-Philadelphia Record.

You'll Be Glad to Know This. The lucidity of this statement, made by a medical journal, will appeal to all hurried readers: "Further evidence of the complex character of toxins was also furnished by the studies of haemolysins and bacteriolysins, which had their origin in the union of an amboceptor and complement and were analogous to toxins, the amboceptor repre-senting the haptophore and the complement the toxophore group.'

Plans to Get Rich are often frustrated by sudden breakdown, due to dyspepsia or constipation. Brace up and take Dr. King's New Life Pills. They take out the materials which are clogging your energies and give you a new start. Cure herdache and dizziness too. At E. S. Leadbeater & Sons' drug store; 25c, guaranteed.
